A large delegation of the cadets left on the morning trains, some going north and others south. The boys will be leaving for two or three days and while they are going there will be considerable doing at the trains. Crowds of Roswell people, especially the young ladies, are down to see them off, and the giving of college yells, singing of college songs and other demonstrations similar are being mixed with the sad farewells which are not so sad among the cadets who are coming back as among those who are gone forever.

The reading of general orders at the close of school this morning by Lieutenant Colonel W. S. Barlow, was a matter of greatest interest, for it shows who will be the cadet officers of the institute next year. The orders follow:

With the approval of the superintendent, the following appointments are made in the corps of cadets, to be in effect till December 1, 1910, unless revoked by proper authority:

There are several offices left vacant, as the military authorities do not consider sufficient effort has been made to attain them. They will be filled, according to proficiency shown in the September recruit drills. Those wishing to try for these places are reminded that it will be well to be on hand at the start and show their willingness and ability to train the new men.

There are several men in the "B" class who have shown ability, and they will be remembered next year. It is not the policy to consider the "B" class in making appointments.

The Corps is to be congratulated on the fine showing made on the drill ground this year, and we will look forward to a still better showing in the coming year.

FOUR NEW ORDINANCES

The city council met last night with the Mayor and all members present with the exception of Mr. Wyllys. After the regular order of business, with no result, four new ordinances were introduced, as follows:

The supervisor ordinance. This was read in full the first time and by number and title the second and the third time, and ordered published under suspension of the rules, by a unanimous vote.

Then came the new sprinkling ordinance the outlines of which have already appeared in the Record. This went the same course as the others, and was ordered published as a proposed ordinance by the vote of eight to one Mr. Walteman voting no.

The annual tax levy ordinance was introduced and read in full. Then under suspension of the rules it was read by number and title the second and third time and ordered published as a proposed ordinance by the vote of seven to two, Messrs. Bryant and Whitman voting no. A move to refer this ordinance to the finance committee for recommendation, was voted down, Messrs. Bryant, Cummins and Whitman endorsing this move.

An ordinance levying a tax of $5 per year on all autos, in addition to the $1 fee for numbers, was introduced and went through the usual process, the vote resulting seven to two, being opposed by Haymaker and Whitman.

Bids for burying paupers were received from Henninger & Co., and the Dilley Co., and referred to the Poor and Pauper committee.

City Attorney Dow reported on the bill of Felipe Pantoja, saying that the city is not liable. This bill amounted to $108.

Recess to Monday night.

The tax levy ordinance introduced last night places the levy at 22 mills. This is an increase of one mill. This was made necessary by the fact that the levy heretofore made for interest on one of the sewer bond issues, was just half that required by law, and necessitated the increase of the levy for that particular purpose by one mill. In other respects the levy is as that of last year.

As there will be a substantial increase in the assessed valuation of city property this year, the levy will raise a considerably increased sum. Last year the levy was 21 mills or $1,381,705. This coming year it will be 22 mills on an estimated valuation of somewhere between $1,500,000 and $1,750,000.
